

HEALTH CARE HEADLINES

One of the best ways to fight for better health care? Share your health care story.

Everybody has a health care story. If you've had to use your health insurance, you likely know how flawed the system is. Personal stories make a difference to legislators. Take a minute to share your story with us

CT Secretary of the State to Propose Amendment for No-Excuse Absentee Ballots

" 'Voters should be allowed to decide for themselves if they would like more options to vote, as voters have in the vast majority of other states. Connecticut voters should not have to wait years to make it easier for them to cast their votes and make their voices heard,' Merrill said in a statement." Read more.

What's possible for the next legislative session after this election? Health care.

"What about a state-run public health insurance option?"

'We know how important it is to have healthcare available broadly to everybody,' Lamont said.

Lamont said Connecticut is a strong supporter of the Affordable Care Act exchange and can do something at the state level.

'I'm looking at all the solutions I can to make healthcare more affordable broadly speaking to individuals, self-employed and small business,' Lamont said. 'You know if our insurance companies can't come up with a solution maybe the public option will be on the table.'" Read more.

Every voter deserves to be heard.

Join the rally on Saturday, November 7 at noon at the State Capitol to demand that every single vote be counted.
